About the Cover

An Indian silk saree is intricate in its design and exquisite in its beauty. It takes years of experience and immense involvement of body, mind and soul to craft a work of art. This magnificent masterpiece would then shield and adorn a woman. But it does not in anyway articulate her worldviews, feelings, or opinions. Weaving peace and justice would be a similar challenge. It involves the whole person – both individual (personal) and in community (shared). But sadly it remains a mirage unless the Prince of Peace intervenes and justice shall roll on like a river. Then only will the illusion become a thing of the past and we shall walk in the land of the free. Into that land may our children awake! Shalom! This cover design is by Rebecca Swamickan, writer/editor with the Bible Ministries department of Scripture Union – India. She has a passion for creatively presenting the Good News and specialises in ministry to children and young people.
